Seven Charged With Narcotics Possession

A Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge student was arrested Friday morning on Highway 90 as he was traveling through Hancock County on his way to a fraternity function in Florida.

Robert M. Inarnet, 18, was stopped for a speeding violation by Highway Patrolmen Clyde Hester and Mickey Ladner and a search of his automobile revealed less than an ounce of marijuana and paraphernalia.

Inarnet was charged with possession on two counts and in a hearing before Peace Justice Lee Klein later that day, the student was fined $500 and costs, and released.

Three Seabees, arrested February 8 in a Highway 90 trailer and charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia were found guilty in a February 14 hearing before Judge Lee Klein. An initial charge of burglary was dropped and a charge of breaking and entering added to the other charge for Mark Holloway, Christopher Drewes and Ricky Schochenmeir. Each of the three men was fined $250 plus costs.

In a hearing Tuesday night, Justice of the Peace Roger Dale Ladner levied fines totaling $850 against three men, arrested February 10 and charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. The men were apprehended by Deputy Sheriff Lathon Garriga on Interstate 10 near the Diamondhead turnoff.

Steve Woods, 19, and Bill Hammeman, 18, were each fined $200 and costs. Their companion, Dean Pedersen, 19, was given a similar fine plus an additional $60 for carrying a concealed weapon.

Carnival Teams End Activities

With fund raising activities completed for SJA's carnival ball teams, Chapman-Peranich and Morreale-Monti, and the gala event only a week away, there is much speculation as to who the reigning monarchs will be. Their identities will remain a secret until the curtain falls at 9 p.m., Friday, March 2.

Bill Argus, decorating chairman, and his committee are busy transforming St. Joseph's Memorial Hall into a glittering setting for the 40th annual ball.

A limited number of tickets are still available from ticket chairman Ed Murtagh or at Bobby Anne Bakery. Tickets will not be sold at the door.

Following the grand march there will be general dancing with music by the Skyliners of Biloxi.

Gas Station Robbed

The Target Oil station on Highway 90 in Waveland was robbed of more than $600 in cash and checks late Sunday afternoon when three cars pulled in the station for gas.

Ely McMillan, station owner and operator, said 12 men in three automobiles pulled into the station about 4:30 p.m. for gas and servicing.

After the cars left, Mrs. McMillan realized that a Hancock Bank money bag, containing $644.88 in checks and cash, was missing from the station office. Waveland police officers Don McIntyre and Robert Tartavouille are investigating the theft. The McMillans identified the automobiles as a blue Chevrolet Nova, a white Oldsmobile and a black Chevrolet. The cars were traveling east on Highway 90.

MARIJUANA POSSESSION

Special Agent Ronald Peterson apprehended two juvenile boys, 15 and 16-years-old, Tuesday afternoon about 4 p.m. as they were sitting on the beach at the foot of Main St., Bay St. Louis, smoking a marijuana cigarette. Each of the youths was also in possession of additional marijuana and cigarette papers.

They were booked at the county jail on charges of possession and turned over to juvenile authorities pending further action.

Fountain Property Zoning Questioned

The Bay St. Louis commission council approved a recommendation from the city's Board of Adjustments to grant a variance allowing New Orleans entertainer Pete Fountain to construct a nine-story apartment condominium on beach front property. The maximum is five stories.

The action was taken at a special council meeting Wednesday morning. During its regular meeting Monday night, the council discussed a recommendation by the city's Planning and Zoning Commission that the present zoning on Fountain's property at North Beach and Highway 90 was not suitable for an apartment complex.

Wilson Webb, a member of the Planning commission, told the council that the commission questioned the present B-2 classification as it does not cover apartment complexes. Webb explained that the zoning had been changed from R-3 to B-2 when Fountain planned to construct a motel at the site. "However, since Mr. Fountain has changed his plans, the planning commission feels that the present zoning (B-2) does not cover the proposed complex," Webb stated.

City Commissioner William Frisbie disagreed with Webb and said that since Fountain also planned a restaurant and lounge, the B-2 classification was the most suitable as it allows for any uses stipulated in R-3. "I believe the commission is wrong in its interpretation," Frisbie emphasized, "and I personally don't plan to take any action on the recommendation."

Mayor Warren Carver suggested that the matter studied by City Attorney Gerald Gex. Commissioner Andre Arceneaux is attending a Civil Defense seminar in Mobile, Ala., and was absent from both meetings.

The council again discussed the matter of replacing B.D. "Fip" Johnson as the city's building inspector.

E.J. Marengo, also a member of the Planning and Zoning Commission, urged council to consider firing Johnson because of several mistakes made by Johnson in the inspection department.

"I have tried before to replace 'Fip' and you know what happened," Frisbie answered, referring to his unsuccessful past attempts to get the council to agree on terminating Johnson's services.

Mayor Carver told Marengo that he (Carver) had no intention of firing Johnson because "all of us, each and every one of us has made mistakes". At this point, Marengo offered his resignation from the Planning and Zoning Commission. No action was taken on the resignation.

In other business, the council refused to advertise in a program for Piccola's School of Dance because it is a profit-making organization.

Board Grants Variance

It took less than 30 minutes Tuesday night for the Bay St. Louis Board of Adjustments to grant a variance request for construction of additional floors above the maximum of five stories on entertainer Pete Fountain's proposed condominium on the beach in Bay St. Louis.

About 50 persons attended the City Hall meeting during which attorney Gerald Gex presented the appeal document from DJK Productions of New Orleans, requesting special exemption to build the structure to a height of 100 feet or nine stories above the present maximum allowance of 66 feet or five stories.

Gex showed the board a general layout plan and an architect's rendering of the condominium, which he said will contain about 70 apartments with a swimming pool and tennis courts. Total construction costs for the complex, to be situated on the water side of the beach road adjacent to Highway 90, has been estimated at $3 million, Gex stated. Protected parking facilities are planned under the raised building.

Gex pointed out future development plans for the property on the North side of the Beach Road running to Second St.

will include the construction of close to 100 cluster apartments within well landscaped boundaries.

The only objections voiced to the proposal came from two members of the audience who were apparently concerned over fire safety features in the building.

James Wimbley and E.R. Dillmann both stated that they were in favor of the condominium but wanted assurance from the attorney and the Adjustment Board that a sprinkler system, fire escapes and other safety features would be incorporated in the building. Gex referred the matter to Ames Kergosien, insurance agent, who assured the two men that the National Underwriters Code demanded adequate fire protection before the building could be covered by insurance.

In a motion adopted unanimously the board granted the variance with the minutes reflecting the stipulation that the building must conform to National Underwriters Code specifications for fire safety with the inclusion of a sprinkler system.

Board members present were Hugh Miller, secretary, William Acker, president, Frank Lagarde and Mrs. Verdie Miller. A fourth member, Thomas Farve, was absent.

Four Arrested In Theft Cases

Four men, one a juvenile, were arrested in two separate cases of stolen automobiles last week in Hancock County.

A 22-year-old New Orleans man, Bryan John Ziegler, and a 16-year-old male companion were apprehended February 14 at the snake farm on Highway 90 when they were found to be in possession of stolen articles and traveling in a 1962 white Volkswagen, stolen from Patricia Trevillian, 2414 Royal St., New Orleans.

Deputy sheriff William Tate said Ziegler and the youth had two swords, imported from India, and cameras in their possession when they were arrested about 5:45 p.m.

In a hearing before Justice of the Peace Joe Dobson, Ziegler was given a fine of $500 and sentenced to 21 days in the county jail on charges of grand larceny and theft. The juvenile was turned over to juvenile authorities.

In an unrelated incident, two men, fugitives from authorities in Texas and Louisiana, were arrested Thursday about 5 p.m. by Mississippi Highway Patrolman Clyde Hester on Highway 807.

Hester reported that he stopped the men, each driving a stolen car, on the highway near the asphalt plant as they were driving in excess of 87 miles per hour.

Dennis H. Adams, 21, who listed his address as 13056 Laval St., New Orleans, and Horace P. Cox, 30, 2638 N. Claiborne St., were booked at county jail on charges of possession of stolen property.

Adams submitted to arrest, Hester said but Cox leaped out of his car and fled into the woods. Highway Ptn. Ray Collins and Sheriff's deputy Ronald Peterson assisted Hester in apprehending the fugitive, a short time later. Hester's police dogs were brought to the scene to track Cox.

According to a report from the police chief in Lamar County, Texas, Cox was wanted there on two counts of burglary. Adams is pending trial in New Orleans on a narcotics charge. The two men were released to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents for prosecution in a federal court.

PART I

Pete Fountain's travail in attempting to build an edifice in Hancock County, although running into a few snags, is not the first such effort. The first attempt was actually made in 75 A.D. by Roman Emperor Vespasian, better known in court circles as Vespa.

Being a progressive-minded emperor, Vespa had advanced agents all over the world looking for suitable sites on which to build THE Colosseum.

Finally, one of the more astute agents Amicus Kargonius, arrived back in Rome with the message Vespa had been waiting for. "I've found it," he exclaimed. "The perfect place for the colosseum! Hancock County, Mississippi in the new world. It's so new it hasn't even been discovered yet."

"Hancock what?!", queried the emperor, but Amicus was continuing breathlessly. "It has a beautiful view of the ocean, it's right on a major highway and the local rulers are very interested in more money...er...I mean, industry and development in the area. And we'd have no trouble staffing for the main events. There are Christians and lions all over the place."

Noting the emperor's hesitance, the agent pressed the point.

"The best part is the whole site is owned by one family -- the House of Gexus and they have offered to sell if the price is right. Come on, Vespa, you gotta see it to appreciate it. We'll make a killing and you'll go down in history..."

A year later, Vespa's barge docked at the Yacht Club and was met by a welcoming committee and various members of the press. To show that they were up on protocol for august personages, the Chamber of Commerce president cut a ribbon in Vespa's honor. Not to be outdone, the Garden Club took Vespa and his entourage on a tour of the area, later recorded in history books as the first Spring Pilgrimage.

Vespa came, he saw and he was conquered. He fell in love with it. He set natives to work building a summer palace on another parcel near the water.

Back at the barge, the oracles reported that all the signs were right for emissaries to approach the triumvirate with plans and renderings of the super structure.

The triumvirate was more than cooperative with Vespasian as this was the year that the populace hopefully would vote to reinstate the trio. However, they mentioned to Vespa that there were a few other little formalities that would have to be worked out.

Vespa retired to the barge, confident that the Colosseum would soon be a reality.

(Next week, Vespa is named King of a local Carnival celebration but while merriment and frivolity reign, the lions come out of the woodwork.)

Noel Fuente, owner and manager of the new Western Auto Associates Store on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis is very proud of his new facilities, and for good reason. With 3,000 square feet of floor space, in the most modern facilities available, Western Auto can display all of their fine merchandise to make shopping a pleasure for their customers. They are open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and their success is self-evident. Congratulations and thank you for your contribution to your community. Mr. Fuente.

The Parade of the Krewes of Nereids will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday in Waveland. This organization has given Waveland and Hancock County a tremendous amount of exposure to other areas and everyone should attend this parade and show them that we appreciate their enterprise. You will enjoy it.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

This is Washington's Birthday - and don't let anybody tell you different! Some of our Brains in Congress thought it would be fun to celebrate his birthday on Monday so they could have a 3-day weekend and, as somebody said in Readers Digest, that made George first in war, first in peace, and first to have his birth date changed so that people could have a long holiday.

Washington was born in 1732 in Virginia - in Westmoreland County where, a hundred years later, Nat Turner staged his slave rebellion. He was commander-in-chief of the army of the colonies and after the surrender of Cornwallis in 1781 and seven years of chaos in the country he was unanimously elected the first President of the new United States. He was re-elected, again unanimously, for a second term, and retired in 1796 to his beloved estate of Mount Vernon on the bank of the Potomac river, where he died three years later. In his famous Farewell Address when leaving office, Washington warned against foreign entanglements - advice which later Presidents might well have heeded.

We well remember our first visit to beautiful Mount Vernon in 1895 where, wandering along the bank of the Potomac we managed to get stung by a bee. A kind lady took us to the kitchen of the mansion where she applied a mud bandage and gave us a glass of milk. Then as a special treat, she took us into one of the front rooms to a glass case which stood on a small table, and in the case were George Washington's false teeth! The bulky frames were made of wood, and the teeth, all exactly alike, were made of pieces of ivory, firmly set into the wooden frames. A triumph of the dental art, but you couldn't blame George for wearing them only on special occasions!

Certain myths have grown up about our first President. He is pictured as standing before his irate father and stating, "I cannot tell a lie. I did it with my little hatchet." We hope this isn't true; it sounds a bit priggish. And then it is told that one day he stood on the bank of the Potomac and threw a silver dollar clear across to the opposite bank. But as someone has observed, money went further in those days.

Washington married Mrs. Martha Dandridge Curtis in 1759. She survived him by three years. They called him the Father of His Country, but he had no children of his own.

Mrs. Eunice Boudin, aunt of the bride, presided at the cake table and another aunt, Mrs. Zola Taylor kept the bride's register.

For traveling the bride wore a long green floral print dress with white accessories and a white rose corsage.

Message For Thirteen-Year-Olds

Hancock County has had its first recorded narcotics death—a 17-year-old high schooler. You all know him, and those who didn't know all about it. This is only the beginning. There'll be more and you all know that, too. Remember the near misses? The 15-year-old who almost OD'd a few months ago shooting acid while he had pep? Well, he's still shocking. And the two others who almost strangled snorting cocaine and the 15-year-old who found out like our late 17-year-old friend that you can really freak out mixing acid, wine, grass and Right Guard all at the same time. He didn't OD but he may as well have. Some people have been asking what happened to him. He's in an institution in Louisiana with no brains left, and the doctors say he'll be there the rest of his life, which won't take long.

So big deal. That's only a tiny percentage of the great many you know who turn on all the time, some who have for years and had no bad effects. Or none that you can see.

How many people do you know who turn on? Better yet, how many do you know who DON'T turn on—at all?

What do the people who don't turn on? They're into other things, things for which they're not getting busted, which they're not paranoid about—and they don't have to worry about getting ripped off by a friend or being given some really bad stuff.

For those who are just starting or haven't started yet, consider this. It's your life. No matter what your parents, teachers, police, doctors or anyone else tries to tell you, you know that in the final analysis, you're going to do exactly what you want to do with it. If you don't want to turn on, there isn't a friend or freak alive who can make you or talk you into it. And if you want to get into dope, there isn't ANYBODY who can talk you out of it. Or any law that's going to force you to stop. Right?

Those of you living in Hancock County have it easier than probably anywhere else in the country. At the same time, that's why making the choice is so much harder. Dope is plentiful and nobody hassles you. Your parents for the most part don't know anything about it and the majority of them don't even know it's happening. The police don't hassle you because they don't really want to fool with it. When they do make an arrest, it's usually by accident.

There's no problem in school because the administrators don't want to have to cope with it, either. You can stay high all day in school, walk around with stuff in your pockets or keep it stashed in your lockers, and you know you're safe. The only person you have to worry about is a friend who's got a mad on and rats on you. And if you do get caught and you're under 18, you haven't a thing to worry about because youth court certainly isn't going to do anything to you.

The choice is strictly up to you.

So all you really have to do is decide what you want to be. You can be one of the herd, join the crowd and turn on. And stay right where you are. Nowhere. Because where ever you are when you start, that's where you're going to be for the rest of your life. Take a good look at the people you know right here at home who've been turning on for five years or more, some who've been busted time and again and some who've never been busted at all. Where are they and what have they accomplished? They are real nowhere people, and they got into dope because they figured they had nothing inside of themselves of any value, so they found a substitute. It's the easy way out and maybe for them, it's the only way.

Of course, if you don't ever try to make it as a person on your own without any artificial aids, you won't ever know, will you?

Which way are you going to go?

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Sir:

In his letter to the editor published in last week's issue of the Echo, Mr. Jack McComiskey stated that my figures on the number of cities operating under various types of government in Mississippi are incorrect. My information comes from the Mississippi Municipal Association by letter dated January 23, 1973. Only five cities use the council-manager system in this state out of a total of 275 incorporated municipalities. These cities are: Grenada, Meridian, Moorhead, Pascagoula and Piquette. Ten cities have the commission type government and 260 towns and cities operate under the mayor-alderman system.

Those who are urging the adoption of the city-manager form of government are telling us why we should vote "Yes" on the proposition. Let me present one important reason why the vote should be "No". The financial resources of small cities are too limited to enable them to support the salary of a qualified city manager. Small cities, like the larger ones, are very short of funds; their expenses are rising rapidly in response to the rising expectations and demands of a growing population.

The Committee for the Council-Manager Government would have us believe from last week's ad in the Echo that the only large salary item under their form of government will be the city manager at a salary of $15,000.00 per year. They seem to have completely ignored the assistants without whom the manager would be unable to properly perform his duties. And the professional manager will naturally want top notch men under him. Why did the committee completely ignore the salaries of the assistants to the city manager? Or would they have you believe that the $50.00 per month mayor and the $38.00 per month aldermen will find a way of running the affairs of the municipality without the high priced assistants to the manager?

Incidentally, the argument that a small town cannot afford a city manager is not mine. It is an admission by the International City Managers' Association and will be found on page 116 of their Research Report entitled "Council-Manager Government in Small Cities". The study was made by David A. Booth of the University of Massachusetts and published by the International City Managers' Association in 1968.

Yours very truly,
Warren Carver

(The following letter is reprinted at the request of the writer.)

Hancock County
Board of Supervisors
Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Sirs:

I am so glad you are surveying the roads in the county and I hope you are including the roads in Shoreline Park. We live at Avenue H and Second Street in Shoreline Park. At times the water is from one to two feet over the roads in this section, from high tide and rain-water.

All it would take to fix these roads is a culvert, and digging out the ditches that were filled in, after "Camille", by the Corps of Engineers, so they could dump debris and junk in a swampy area, across from our house. Therefore, there is no natural drainage, so the roads either stand under water or they get washed away.

We have had mud holes, that have never dried up, in months. Our mail carrier, M.J. Gleber, or Mrs. Albert Biehl, Jr., our Daily Herald carrier, can verify this, if there is a doubt in your minds about these road conditions.

I certainly hope something will be done and soon.

Yours truly,
Mrs. James L. Pfaffner

Dear Sir,

I read in your paper that Tanner Construction Company had submitted a bid on a contract for the construction of a bridge in Hancock County.

I would like to call the attention to the taxpayers of the county the rebuilding of the Lakeshore Road (approximately 5 miles), for which Tanner Construction Company has the contract. Work was begun July 5, 1971, and is not nearly completed. The hardships, inconvenience, and abuse to vehicles of the residents and many others are unbelievable. This is the second winter, which so far has been an extremely wet one, that we have bogged in the mud—even the heavy equipment bogs down, and many times the road is completely impassible. Last summer we suffocated from the dust. For a period of two months during the summer the road was not touched. The procedure has been to haul the dirt in, let it blow or wash away, then haul more dirt. Work was halted about October 1. The excuse is that there is a state regulation that prohibits the pouring of blacktop from October until March.

The road is being graded from time to time with, I understand, equipment furnished by the county. The question is, who is to blame for this? The current members of the Board of Supervisors say they are blameless—the contract was written up before they went into office. We have been told there are many discrepancies in the contract. For example, it did not specify drainage ditches (or culverts).

Someone should be punished for this disgraceful situation—the engineers that drew up the contract, the members of the Board of Supervisors that approved it or Tanner Construction Company that agreed to perform the work under such a contract.

We have written to Mr. Shag Pyron, Highway Commissioner; Lt. Gov. William Winter, who, we have been informed, has formed a committee to investigate irregularities in road building in the state. So far, no relief has been forthcoming.

This situation could happen in any section of the county—or state, because of the irresponsibility and disinterest of the public officials.

Come see for yourselves the folly of the Lakeshore Road.

Dear Editor:

During my recent visit to Harrison County, I had the distinct pleasure of enlisting the help of Sheriff Harold L. Hobbs and his staff in assisting me with the apprehension of a criminal. Your Sheriff's response was prompt and complete with unbelievable cooperation.

This swift and prompt response to a law enforcement situation is indicative of the imagination and appreciation that your Sheriff holds toward the responsibilities that you have endowed him with.

Indeed, Sheriff Hobbs' cooperation with the Iberville Parish Sheriff's

So let it be known that the people of Harrison County can be rest assured that their security and care are in competent and capable hands.

We, too, would like to think that Sheriff Hobbs' assistance has made the minds of our people more content in knowing that criminals who commit acts here cannot find a haven in Harrison County.

Thanks to you for a man of Sheriff Hobbs' stature.

Respectfully,
Jesse M. Ourso, Sheriff

To the Tax-payers of Bay-Waveland School District:

This letter is written with deep concern for the schools in your district. For twenty years (1948-1968) I was an elementary teacher in the Bay St. Louis City Schools. For the last four years I have been Librarian and Coordinating Librarian in the elementary libraries of the Pass Christian School System.

I want the people of Waveland to know that I applied for the job of Librarian in your new school. The reason given for not hiring me was a lack of funds to pay a librarian's salary.

Your new school now has the Superintendent's wife (with no college credits) in the library plus an assistant. Surely you will agree with me in saying that the two together would equal or nearly equal a teacher's salary. A librarian gets the same pay as a classroom teacher. This is merely an assumption because I have no way to check this as the pay records are a deep dark secret kept locked in the school office. They are no longer kept at City Hall. The Mayor no longer signs the checks for the teachers' pay.

Your present library worker in Waveland Elementary was transferred from Bay Junior High School. She was replaced there by a qualified librarian. Do you think that the children at that school needed such personnel more than those of the elementary school? I think that the love of books should be instilled in the very young.

Teachers who did not hold an A certificate, that is four years of college work, were dismissed from the City system this year. How can persons with no college work be retained in the libraries and the school still retain its rating? That question will furnish some food for thought.

You will probably be told that there were no applications for the job. Please do not be misled by what you hear. I know personally of one teacher who applied. I was told by the superintendent that two teachers within the system had to be considered before this applicant. The writer of this letter was also told that a written application was necessary because the School Board demanded it. That application was properly made, but it never reached the School Board.

Now, back to a lack of funds as a reason for not hiring qualified personnel. Our neighboring school system right across the bridge from us has a comparable enrollment and the same number of schools to maintain. For many years that system has been able to have a Lunchroom Supervisor, Reading Supervisor, Week-long Teacher Workshops, Curriculum Center, Four Librarians (two elementary), Audio-Visual Aids, and many other progressive educational requirements. This year its elementary and middle schools received an A rating by the Association of Southern Schools. Why can we not have such progress? Some of our answers might be poor management of funds, wrong emphasis on sections of curricula (as P.E. and Cleanliness), poor personnel relations, lack of school board support, or poor administrative leadership. I feel that the last is most important, because a school must have dedicated, professional leadership to progress.

Too long we have settled for the minimum instead of the maximum for our children. Our vote against the school bonds recently showed a slight awakening to the situation, but we must do more. Let us put aside our false reliance on the old slogan "Let Joe do it", and become a better informed public.

As you read this, please do not put me in a category as "rabble-rouser" or disgruntled job seeker. The majority of you know me for what I am, as I have lived in this community and served you and your children for many years. I am happy in my present job. In fact, my present job has given me a professional challenge that I would not have had in your system, and it has been a most rewarding experience. So I am not seeking a job. I am just one of your apathetic taxpayers who is interested in your children getting the benefit of every tax dollar. I have heard "insufficient funds" for so long that it has become a joke. I think that it is time for us to get an answer to this

Legislative Report

by EARL "BUCK" LADNER
STATE REPRESENTATIVE
HANCOCK COUNTY

The work load of the Mississippi Legislature became much lighter on Monday, February 12, with the passage of the deadline for reporting general bills originating in the respective chambers. The next major deadline is a most important one, that of Thursday, February 22, which is the final day for passing general bills originating in House.

Deadlines do not apply to appropriations, revenue and local and private bills. Many such bills are still in committee and introductions are still being made of these bills.

House Bill 335 which proposed to increase the length of truck-trailer combinations from 55 to 65 feet and permit the operation of twin trailer rigs in Mississippi was defeated in the House by a vote of 78 to 38.

Due to the fact that the Legislature will be in session this Saturday, I will be unable to meet with the public at Scaffidi's Restaurant.

Hancock County

This is the year that you may profit by increasing corn production, particularly if the supply of soybean planting seed is as short as is anticipated.

If you are going to plant corn, select a good hybrid that does well in your area. If faced with stunt or maize dwarf mosaic virus in corn, select a variety that has resistance to these diseases.

To make top yields, you must plant early. There is just no substitute for early planting.

Plant an adequate number of seed to get a good stand. Today's hybrids must have high plant populations for high yields. You will need 15,000 to 16,000 plants per acre to make 80 to 100 bushels of grain. In order to get an adequate stand, you need to plant 15 to 20 percent more seed than you want plants per acre.

Higher plant populations and higher yields demand higher rates of fertilizer. Soil test to determine your needs.

Use a good herbicide to control weeds and grasses. Aatrex is excellent. If nutgrass is a problem, use a Sutan-Aatrex mixture. If signal grass is a problem, Lasso is recommended.

DAIRY NOTES

Fresh, clean, ice-free water is the cheapest feed you can give your dairy cows. When cows drink more water, they eat more forage and give more milk.

Cows particularly like to drink water immediately after milking, so if you do not have water available for them at the barn after milking, it will pay you to provide it.

MEETINGS

The annual meeting of the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association will be held at the Coliseum in Jackson, February 12-13.

The Mississippi Pork Producers Association will meet at the Heidelberg Hotel in Jackson, February 14th.

FOOD PRICES

Sure food costs are high, but so are personal incomes! Even with the "high prices" prevailing today, the average family only spends 16 percent of its income on food. This is the lowest percentage in history and is by far lower than that of any other country in the world.

Social Security Information

Walter H. Hobbs, District Manager, of the Gulfport, Ms. social security office urged everyone who will need a social security number to apply for the number several weeks before it is needed. The new cards are issued in the accounting office in Baltimore, Md., thus, it takes about four weeks to get a number.

He cautioned the young individuals to get a number early if they plan to take driver's education in school or plan to take college entrance type tests. You must have a number in order to take the test.

question - "Why are the funds insufficient when we continue to pay increased taxes each year?" Surely we deserve that much for our taxes.

HGH Laboratory Equipped To Offer Best Of Care

by Adree Shortle
Echo staff writer

Curtis Hegwood, chief medical technologist at Hancock General Hospital, describes the hospital laboratory as "the finest equipped in any hospital of a comparative size that I've seen."

A very necessary part of the hospital complex, the lab's primary service is to the physician in providing better patient care through diagnostic functions as well as monitoring a patient's progress and condition under treatment.

Working under minimal staffing conditions, the lab is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The staff includes two full time technologists, Hegwood and Skip Cothern; Mrs. Margie Powers, a graduate medical technologist working part time; Mrs. Betty Romanoff, Electrocardiogram technician and lab secretary; Hegwood, Cothern and Mrs. Powers are all graduate medical technologists, registered with the American Society of Clinical Pathology.

Inclusion in SSCP requires four years of medical technology training in an approved university; the last year spent in clinical training in an accredited hospital. Before he may be registered with ASCP, the technologist must pass National Registry examinations which are so rigorous, Hegwood said, that traditionally only about 50 percent of examinees pass. The Hancock General lab is divided into several departments of medical testing and analysis, which include bacteriology, urinalysis, blood bank, hematology, parasitology and clinical chemistry.

Probably the most complex department, according to Cothern, is clinical chemistry in which tests are performed for diabetes, cardiac and intensive care patients and organ function tests to increase accuracy of the doctor's diagnoses.

The technologists at Hancock General can perform almost all known chemistry diagnostic tests in the lab, Hegwood said, except those few requiring complex and expensive machinery which the hospital doesn't have. These machines are for the rare, almost exotic maladies which occur too infrequently to warrant the expense of purchasing necessary equipment. In this department, Hegwood said, the technologists run "controls" with chemical tests to insure

(MCV, MCH, MCHC), the latter three providing a blood cell breakdown as to size, volume and red cell donor system, conducted under the auspices of the American Red Cross Blood Bank in Mobile.

precision and accuracy for the med tech as well as insure best patient care. Controls are expensive and time consuming to do, he explained, and are not absolutely necessary but are run routinely at Hancock General "so we can be sure that everything possible has been done to leave no margin for error", he added. Using controls as standard operating procedure also favorably affects accreditation standards for the hospital.

In the field of hematology, Hegwood noted with pride that the lab staff was fortunate enough to have the best machine made for running a complete blood count on a patient—in 43 seconds. In that amazingly short length of time, the technologist can test white blood cell count, red blood cell count, hemoglobin, hematocrit and indices hemoglobin count. All of which means in layman's terms that a complete blood count helps to pinpoint the possibility of a patient suffering from an infection, virus, internal bleeding, leukemia, dehydration, polycythemia (too many red cells) or anemia. The rapidity and accuracy of the CBC is of great value to the physician in diagnosis and treatment, Hegwood pointed out.

Another facility not usually found in a hospital of its size is the blood bank at HGH, Hegwood pointed out. Most small hospitals are not equipped to retain a constant stock of whole blood, and are generally supplied from the nearest larger institution. A specially designed refrigerator in the lab contains a limited supply of all the more common types of blood needed for transfusions. After a specific length of time, blood on hand is sent to the main blood bank in Mobile as after about 21 days, the potency of the red blood cells is reduced and is not as effective for direct transfusion.

The hospital's primary source of whole blood is through the Hancock County types of antibodies which can cause an adverse reaction, he said, and such testing takes about 40 minutes to complete, on each cross-match.

Although only about 50 years old, medical technology has become one of the major developments in the field of medicine. The primary contribution of a lab such as the one at Hancock General, Hegwood concluded, is that it frees the doctor to use his skills in other needed areas of patient care, and saves him valuable time that would ordinarily be lost in conducting his own diagnostic tests.

Blood from periodic drawings held in Hancock County is sent to the blood center in Mobile, with HGH technologists often assisting in donor screening at the drawings. However, when the hospital is in need of additional blood for its bank or a need arises for an emergency patient, regular local donors are contacted through John Rutherford Jr., blood bank director for Hancock County.

"We are particularly proud of the record of response from local donors who have never refused a call for help," Hegwood said. He also lauded the Mississippi State Highway Safety Patrol personnel who aid in emergency calls by rushing blood from the Gulfport hospital or from Mobile.

A good bit of complex testing and analysis is involved before a donor's blood is accepted in the bank, Hegwood explained. Each specimen is checked not only for type and grouping but screening tests are conducted to determine the possibility of a transfusion reaction in a patient. There are 35 to 40

Prehistoric Turtle Returned To MSU

A 70 million year old turtle has returned home to Mississippi State University and will be permanently enshrined in the Dunn Sieler Museum at the University.

The ancient vertebrate was found in 1931 by Frederic F. Mellen, a consulting geologist in Jackson and a graduate of MSU.

Mellen found the turtle in the cretaceous cherts in the eastern edge of Oktibbeha county. The turtle later found itself in the Field Museum in Chicago for study by Dr. Rainer Zangerl, a noted authority on cretaceous vertebrates.

The turtle shell found by Mellen is believed to be a new species that has never before been described.

Dr. Ernest Russell, curator of the MSU museum says "We intend to study the turtle to determine its relationship to similar fossil turtles of the same age."

Mellen felt the turtle should be placed in his alma mater's museum and after nearly 40 years in the Chicago museum, it has been returned and will be a part of the paleontological collections at the MSU museum.

The turtle is believed to have weighed 70 and 80 pounds during its prime, some 70 million years ago.

Trumpets In The Morning

by Perry D. Neal, Pastor First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis

Clayton Spriggs of the James Robinson Evangelistic Association gives us the following timely thoughts.

February. The season when our thoughts turn to the things that touch our lives sentimentally and emotionally. The affection that draws us into close, fulfilling relationships with one another. Tenderness, the balm of marriage -- and even friendship. The warmth that stirs within us when we hear a song, inhale a fragrance, see a scene that reminds us of some person or event dear to our memory.

God has much to say about the heart -- and not all of what he says is sweet. He says, for instance, that the heart untouched by his redeeming work is wicked above all things and utterly beyond help. Jesus said that evil man, out of the abundance of the heart, bringeth forth evil things. And again: "Out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies" -- The evils from within that defile a man. David, remember, on being brought under conviction for his sins, implored God to "create in me a clean heart."

But, Praise God, the heart need not be a den of iniquity. For Jesus also said, "A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things." The heart can be the abode of peace ("let not your hearts be troubled"). And it can, and should be, the abiding place of the love that fulfills the will of God and identifies the Christian before the watching world -- The love of Christians for one another. "Because I have you in my heart," Paul wrote to the believers at Philippi.

What makes the difference? What can give a man this dramatic "change of heart"? Only the regenerating and purifying work of God's love, through Christ.

"If thou shalt believe in thine heart... Thou shalt be saved" -- and the heart shall be transformed. It is by hiding the word of God, personified by the Holy Spirit, in one's heart that one is able to provide an abundance of goodness to fill the heart of a man.

Buoy Sent To NOAA

A third prototype of a small, environmental data buoy designed to collect meteorological and oceanographic information automatically and send it to a shore station or space satellite was delivered to the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) in brief ceremonies last week.

The first of three Lockheed-designed and -built Limited Capability Buoy (LCB) will be carried to its first duty station in the Gulf of Mexico later this month by the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter SALVIA, home ported in Mobile, Alabama. The other two buoys are scheduled to be placed at duty stations in the Gulf later this spring.

Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif., has developed and built three self-contained buoys for NOAA's Data Buoy Center which is located at the Mississippi Test Facility, Hancock County, Mississippi. Off-the-shelf sensors on the drum-shaped, three-ton buoy will collect wind speed and direction and air temperature and pressure from the top of its seven-foot mast. Water temperature and pressure to depths of more than 600 feet will be collected along a weighted data line.

This information is used by weather forecasters in working out their predictions.

Designed to be anchored in water depths from 240 feet to 24,000 feet, these buoys have a set of batteries to power a three-channel radio transmitter, a small data processor and a warning light on the mast. The batteries are expected to last six to 12 months before requiring replacement or recharge.

Data from the 11 1/2-foot-long, 4 1/2-foot-diameter buoys is sent automatically every six hours. If commanded by the shore station, these buoys can send information at more frequent intervals.

The fast mooring system on the buoys consists of a 40-pound dig-in anchor and another 4,700-pound clump anchor connected to the buoy by chain and nylon. The top 5,000 feet of nylon is protected against fish bite by a polyurethane sheath.

Environmentally, the LCBs are designed to survive in a 4-knot current, winds to 100 knots and waves to 45-foot height.

Under a separate NOAA contract, Lockheed has also designed and built an experimental high capability buoy that collects meteorological and oceanographic information automatically and transmits it to shore stations. This sophisticated Deep-Keel Buoy is larger and collects a greater variety of data.

Weighing 30 tons, this 29-foot, boat-shaped buoy is scheduled to be towed to its duty station in February in the Gulf of Mexico about 230 miles south of New Orleans.

Coast Crime Commission Issues Activity Report

The Mississippi Coast Crime Commission held its first Annual Membership meeting at the Mississippi Power Company Auditorium January 23. Members and guests from all three coast counties were in attendance and officers and members of the Board were elected for the current year.

Robert O. Rasch was re-elected president of the Commission. Dr. Robert L. Donald of Pascagoula, was elected vice president, and O.K. Lion, vice president and cashier of Hancock Bank, was re-elected to the office of secretary-treasurer.

George M. Byars of Pascagoula, and James

Rasch, Jr., were re-elected to the Board of Directors to serve three-year terms, and newly elected to serve three-year terms were Harry M. Simpkins, 3rd, of Hill and Simpkins, Architects and Engineers, Gulfport; T.M. von Sprecken, Jr., vice president and general manager of Mississippi Export Railroad Company, Moss Point; L. Gary Smith, and insurance executive, Pascagoula, and Jolly P. McCarty, vice president, First National Bank of Jackson County, Pascagoula.

In his report of the membership, Rasch reviewed the activities of the crime Commission during the past year, citing highlights, such as the Commission participation in the TIP (Turn In A Pusher) Program, its Annual Awards Dinner, the Survey and recommendations for improvement of police salaries and personnel programs, the request for audit of the accounts and records of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors, and the reprinting of the Handbook for Grand Jurors, which is to be distributed to every Circuit Court in the State.

Earl Riley, executive director of the Commission, reviewed the internal operations of the Commission, including the compilation of criminal intelligence, the Commission's membership and liaison with the National Association of Citizen Crime Commissions, an in-depth explanation of the Tip Program and the Commission's contributions in assisting other cities throughout the United States.

In the implementation of the program.

Rasch concluded by thanking the membership for their moral and financial support. He cited a 40 percent increase in membership in the Commission during 1972 and he encouraged all citizens to become involved in their community through membership in the Crime Commission, to include individuals, service clubs and organizations, financial institutions and business and industry. "The work of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission," said Rasch, "is, in essence, 'Civic Improvement thru Citizen Involvement', and a citizen cannot only participate through moral and financial support, but also by providing pertinent information to the Crime Commission or its Directors where such information will lead to the improvement of the government function."

TO THE VOTERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI

My entire family joins me in expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation to every one who supported me in the Special Election for Circuit Clerk held last Saturday by their votes as well as by working in my behalf. With eleven candidates in the race, I led the ticket with 1,096 votes and my nearest opponent had 462 votes, according to the unofficial results. The run-off will be on Saturday, March 3rd, and I am asking each of you to support me this time, as well as those of you who supported any of the unsuccessful candidates.

I promise that if elected I will continue to run the office as it has been run in the past, to the best of my ability. Anything less than my best would be unfaithful to you, the people of Hancock County, and would be untrue to the trust that my late father, Lamar Otis, had in me.

Thank you again for the support which you have given me.

Interim Circuit Clerk

Seems like winter weather just won't go away. It was cold over the weekend again. According to the Ground Hog tradition we will have a couple of more weeks of bad weather. With most hunting seasons over our thoughts turn to fishing, both salt and fresh water. From now on salt water fishing will be the order of the day. Speckles, red fish, sheepshead, flounders and croakers are caught up the rivers and along the beaches from Cedar Point to Bayou Caddy. Mostly still fishing with dead shrimp will be done. Of course some artificial baits for specks and flounders will be used.

Some fishermen who go for cat fish will be setting out cat fish lines and set lines. Channel catfish are considered a good food fish and are found in virtually every body of water in the state. Valuable commercially as he is claimed to be the cleanest of all catfish. When skinned and large enough they can be cut into small steaks and fried. They make an excellent seafood meal.

Fresh water fishing will come into its own as soon as the weather and water warms up. Green trout, bream, safford, will be caught by fly fishing and casting. Surely some are always caught by still fishing. Around this section of the State there is some of the best fresh water fishing to be found anywhere.

After February a fisherman's dream will be fulfilled when it comes to catching soft crabs, flounders, and frogs. All are good sports for young and old alike. If you don't do these sports you had better get in the groove, you will like them. There will be plenty of outdoor sports throughout the summer time.

Speaking of duck hunting this year, according to James Ruhl, Gerald Kennedy and Horace Ruhl there were more ducks hereabout than in previous years. All three are real sportsmen and got their share of the prized waterfowl.

Two of our young bass fishermen are Ronnie Fletcher and Bill Johnson. They work at Fletcher's Air-conditioning and Electrical Co. and on off time catch their share of bass. They also play music with a local band. Specialize in Country Western music at Capri Lounge. Pretty busy boys.

Harry Carver and Vic Carver reported catching a string of red fish and flounders along the Railroad Bridge last Monday. Harry and Vic are experienced fishermen. If the fish are biting they will get their share.

The Krewe of Nerelds will hold its annual carnival parade at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 25th, in Waveland. Pete Fountain will be grand marshal of the parade. Make it your business to attend. A good time is in store for everyone.

J.C. Baxter reported a fish kill last Tuesday night by the local yacht club. J.C. said he picked up 3 wheelbarrows of dead fish from the water. They were only mullets. Could find no reason for the kill. Must have been a man-made pollution, Baxter said. Baxter is manager of the Yacht Club and an ardent fisherman.

Understand Keene Rauret is now living at the Bay again. Keene is another of our younger hunters and fishermen. Welcome home Keene.

his friends spent the weekend camping at a camp on Jourdan River. They tried fishing and had little success.

Missed the steel, rain and snow predicted for the past weekend. Maybe the weather will get normal soon. Fishing usually improves after a hard winter. Let's hope so.

There has been talk of soft crabbing, floundering and frogging which usually starts after the first of March. We predict a better season for all these sports this summer.

Don't forget to clean and oil the old blunderbust before putting it away. Our moist climate causes guns to rust easily. Vaseline helps wonderfully.

Washington's Birthday was celebrated this week. It was said he never told a lie. Most of our local fishermen don't come under that category. They all prevaricate a little when telling of their catches, we think.

Now is a good time to check your floundering lights, repair your fishing tackle. Have them in good shape when it's time to go. It will save a lot of embarrassment and cursing - by one who knows.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK

LOUIS JAQUILLARD enjoys his fishing. Louis is with the Bay Glass Co., and when not busy takes to local streams where he gets his share of all kinds of fish. Has no special places, he claims.

The annual election of officers of the St. Stanislaus Sideline Club was held at the supper-meeting on February 6th of the membership. All present officers were unanimously re-elected for the coming year. Proof that they have been doing a good job. Sportsmen and others are invited to join the club. A supper is served once a week with business matters being discussed and settled.

A few speckles are still being caught down in the canals at Bayou Caddy. They are mostly pan size. Not too numerous but make for good eating. Shad rigs and artificial baits are used for catching. Otherwise both fresh and salt water fishing is off at this time.

Al Kingston has added a camping addition to his truck. Must be anticipating some camping trips when the weather gets right.

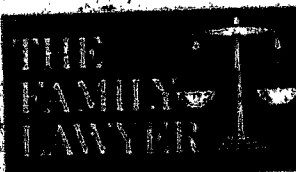

Bob Jones and Bub Genin made their last quail hunt Sunday of the season. They got a few quail, a couple of woodcock and snipe. All hunting seasons are over until next year. The last of the seasons on bird hunting closed on February 20th.

John Genin was down from Ole Miss. for the weekend. He finishes school in August of this year. Will be a regular fisherman again.

Most hunters will return to fishing now that hunting has ended. Bird dogs will have a long rest but must be taken care of. Owning a bird dog is rather expensive but well worth it says most hunters. All hunting seasons for water fowl, birds, rabbits, etc. were fairly good this year according to those who enjoy these sports.

Alden Manfroy has had the cast removed from his broken hand and is raring to get back to fishing. He goes at every opportunity.

Doctor's Fee

Harold's wife died shortly after undergoing an operation. When a bill arrived from the surgeon, Harold decided not to pay. In due course, the matter wound up in court.

"Obviously, the operation was a failure," Harold pointed out to the judge. "Why should I have to pay for services that were useless?"

However, the court ordered him to pay up. The court said a doctor's services are to be measured by the quality of his work, not merely by the results—and this doctor had performed the operation in a proper manner.

"The marvelous skill of the greatest surgeons in the world," added the judge, "is sometimes futile."

This case states the general rule of law about medical fees. Furthermore, unless a specific sum has been agreed upon in advance, the doctor generally has considerable leeway—within reason—in deciding how high the fee will be. May he take into account the patient's ability to pay? That is, may he charge a higher fee to a rich patient than to a poor one? Most courts say yes, sometimes on the theory that high-paying work will allow him to take on more low-paying work.

Nevertheless, the basic standard of due care remains constant, whether the fee is large or small—or even nonexistent. In one early case, a doctor was accused of neglecting a charity patient. In his defense, he insisted that he had less responsibility to be careful when he was working for nothing.

But the court disagreed, and held him liable on grounds of malpractice.

The judge commented:

"Whether the patient be a pauper or a millionaire, whether he be treated gratuitously or for reward, the physician owes him precisely the same measure of duty and the same degree of skill and care."
